* Each player's setup

Tea party for 2 players

Choose 1 character who won't join this game. Put that character's belongings back to the box.
*including any one postcard, the set of Secret Letters matching the postcard seal, secret letter of that character, and the character pawn who didn't join the party. There's only 3 characters, so we use only 3 chairs. The third player is NPC. The NPC will also get the character book, post card and the secret letters. Every player will start with 4vp and 3 secret letters. (NPC is an Non Player Character which is also assigned Character by secret letter)

Tea party for 3 players

Use all the components
The fourth player is NPC
The NPC will also get the character book, post card and the secret letters.
Every player will start with 3vp and 4 secret letters.

Tea party for 4 players

Use all the components
Every player will start with 2vp and 4 secret letters.

Prepare for the Tea Party! (game start)

The player who took the pocket watch is the start player. During your turn, you can take an action from the three options below. After that, going clockwise, the next player will take his turn.

(1) Set the tableware

Select one tableware item and put it on the table so it is clear which position it is in front of. The total point of the tableware in front of the seat is the point for that seat. The character takes a seat.

Teacup	1P	Tea pot	Number of tea cups x2P*
Big dish	2P	Milk pot	Number of tea cups x1P*
Small dish	1P	Sugar can	Number of tea cups x1P*

*The number of the teacup is the total number of teacups on the table.

(2) The character takes a seat

Put the character pawn on an empty chair next to the table.
*of course you can put any character you like. If all the characters are seated, the tea party (game round) ends.

(3) Send a secret letter

The secret letter is used for guessing the character of the other players. Put one secret letter face down in front of another player.

*you can send a secret letter to NPC. In the next turn, you can send the second secret letter to the same player. The player who receives the letter has to keep it face down and put it on the postcard in the order he received it, 1~3. If he receive 4 or more letter, put them on the right side.

Party starts! (calculate the points)

After all the characters take a seat, the tea party starts (count points).

(1) Open the character book (confirm predictions)

All players open their character book. Starting from the player who took the pocket watch, take turns in clockwise order. Open the secret letters in front of the player. If a player correctly makes a prediction, that player will take 2VP from the player they predicted, starting from the player who predicted earlier. If the player doesn't have enough VP, he won't have any to give.
* so guessing earlier gives you some benefit.
If you guess the NPC correctly, you'll receive VP from the game area.

(2) Check ranking!

Count the points from your character's seat.
Decide the ranking from the highest seat points.

If there is a tie, sadly they won't be ranked!
*so be careful when you set the tableware!
Umm, are well letting you know a little late?
Gain VP according to the rank chart below

	4 players	3 players	2 players
Rank 1	5VP	3VP	2VP
Rank 2	3VP	1VP	1VP
Rank 3	1VP	0VP	—

VP for correct guesses are earned during "Open the Character book" stage. Players cannot take ranking VPs from others for correct predictions.

* NPC's don't earn any VP.

(3) Next tea party (game round)

If you fulfill the number of tea parties required, you'll "wake up" (game ends). If you don't fulfill them, you'll start again from the "Prepare the next tea party setup" (see below)

4 players	3 players	2 players
4 rounds	3 rounds	4 rounds

(4) Prepare the next tea party setup

Give the pocket watch to the player on the left.
Put all the tableware and characters next to the table.
Return the secret letters.

The player who has the pocket watch now, shuffles the character books together and deals them randomly to all the players.
Start from "Prepare for the Tea Party!", and continue the game.

Wake up! (end of game)

Count the total VP.

The highest total VP is the happiest person during the tea party, and they are the winner!

If there is a tie, the VP is not counted.

If all the players VPs are not counted, whoever gets the best ranking at the last tea party is the winner.
